Hopes Both Parties Keep From Foreign Policy In Politics

WASHINGTON (AP)-Secretary of State Dulles accused Red China Tuesday of propaganda and subversive activity, under cover of its Formosa Strait' cease-fire, to drive a wedge between the United States and Nationalist China.

"The main theme constantly reiterated is that the Americans must abandon Taiwan (Formosa) . and go home." Dulles said.

"The United States remains loyal to its treaty of mutual security with the Republic of China."

The 40-minute news conference was devoted almost exclusively to questions about the Formosa crisis. On the subject of politics, Dulles said he hoped both Republicans and Democrats would refrain from discussing current aspects of foreign policy in the 1958 congressional campaign. A reporter quoted a statement by Vice President Nixon at Chicago Monday night in which Nixon said "The Acheson foreign policy resulted in war and the Eisenhower-Dulles policy resulted in

Enjoys Evasiveness

The reporter asked whether this criticism of the Truman administration's Secretary of State Dean Acheson fell within the limits Dulles had prescribed.

Grinning broadly, as if enjoying is evasiveness, Dulles replied: "It might fit without the limits." He did not elaborate.

After the news conference, newsmen sent Dulles a request for clarification. His response was to change his reply so that it read: Both statements might fit without the limits which I hope both sides would observe.

Dulles referred to Nixon's comment and to a Democratic statement put out last Saturday and to which Nixon replied. DOLLAR VALUE

Yet it is an interesting fact that nationally the average cost of a pharmaceutical prescription is about $2.50 - and more than half of all prescriptions cost less than $2.00. Although higher than 20 years ago, the increass in the cost of medicine lags far behind that of other, and less essential, commodities.

In an emergency the value of medicine can hardly be reckoned in dollars.

Ministers Hit Gambling In Petersburg

Clergy Opposes Selling Chances

PETERSBURG - The Petersburg Ministerial Association adopted a resolution at its last meeting striking at gambling in the community. The resolution follows:

"The Petersburg Ministerial Association wishes to go on record as opposing the practices of petty gambling carried on in our community. Gambling, the getting of something for nothing, easy money and other related attitudes and practices have become a national scandal and a menace to the moral and spiritual integrity of our nation The Bible teaches us to 'Abstain from every form of evil' (I Thessalonians, 5:22) and we know that that was the standard of Jesus Christ in all things. We, therefore, protest the practices of selling chances and any other forms of the gambling evil. We especially deplore the practice of sending out children to sell chances on various articles or projects. We do not believe that the end justifies the means when the means are clearly out of harmony with the prevailing standards of the New Testament

"We pledge our interest and held a farewell party a recent cooperation in our community

OPrices: Potent Political Issue

More troubled by high prices than by Quemoy-Matsu, the Middle East, the Sherman Adams scandal, school desegregation or the danger of Socialism is the way voters are described by political reporters in many parts of the country. What used to be called the "high cost of living" could be as potent a campaign issue this year and in 1960 as it was in earlier elections.

In 1910 and 1912 the Democrats made political hay by blaming the Republican (Payne-Aldrich) tariff act of 1909 for the high prices of the time. And the Ins got nowhere by arguing that the trouble was not so much the high cost of living as the cost of high living.

In 1920 it was the Republicans' turn to go to town on the high prices issue. They laid them less to World War I and war aftermath than to the Wilson administration's extravagance, unsound money policies, high taxes, inefficiency.

Came the depression of 1921 and the collapse of farm prices, then a period of fairly stable price levels. Came the depression of 1929-33, and with it the problem of getting prices high again so that farmers and other producers could survive. Came war in Europe in 1939, and then the Roosevelt administration had to concentrate on price ceilings instead of on price floors.

In 1948 President Truman successfully blamed the Republican Congress for abandoning price controls, even if the preceding Democratic Congress had killed his elaborate price-control program. Four years later the Democrats got nowhere by trying to keep that issue alive. Today both parties promise to keep both farm prices and industrial wages high, and if either can at the same time reduce prices to the consumerwell, it's a nice trick if you can do it.

The Ball Game

I have lived many years but have never before seen a World Series game. My life has moved in dif-Berent channels, wars, revolutions, politics, throatcutting, historical gossip but never before have I sat through two World Series baseball games. I was importuned to this opportunity by none other than the amiable ex-Postmaster General and Coca Cola salesman, Jim Farley, to whom baseball is a rite. He took me two days running which was such a change of pace in our family that even the dog, Joe, could not understand why I dressed in country clothes and did not go to the country, where he, quite sensibly, would prefer

There were 71,000 persons out to see a game. True, some came to be seen and others came to talk, which is an annoying exercise when out of place. The game itself is extraordinarily attractive to one who is not used to it. Of course, in my childhood, there was much baseball, but childhood scenes are like childhood tastes which do not hold out into middle age. Interests become diverse; time passes swiftly.

One of the most interesting baseball games I ever saw was in Tientsin, China. There was a game between a 15th Infantry team and a team of Negro soldiers brought up from Manila. In the bleachers where we all sat were many older Chinese who had studied in American universities as far back as the 1880s, principally at Columbia and Yale, They were, back in 1918 and 1919, extremely pro-American; they spoke happily of their lives in the United States.

The older men, who liked baseball, had lived according to American ways in the United States. They had lived with American families. Some of them had joined American churches. When they were called back to China they achieved high position. Undoubtedly the greatest of them all was Tong Shao-yi, alumnus of Columbia University, baseball fan, art collector and man of distinction both under the monarchy and in the Republic. In their younger years, he and Herbert Hoover had been friends. He understood American life and aspirations. When I last saw him, he was well up in his seventies. His English was faultless; his sense

He wanted to come to the United States again and he wanted to see a World Series, but time passed him by and his death was brutal and ugly in a world of

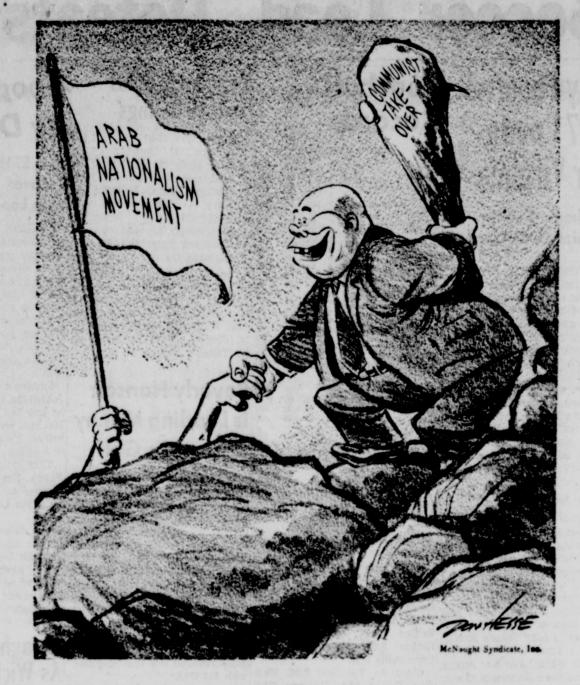

The Japanese adopted baseball and chewing gum as the great contributions of American civilization way back in those days. They had fairly good teams and played good ball. When an American player, maybe it was Babe Ruth, came over, the Japanese took a holiday to give him a reception. Every pro-American Japanese, back in my days, was a baseball fan, almost as a mark of affiliation. Also he chewed gum which proved that he had attained modernity. This was the time when the Mo-gos were developing in the cities of Japan, the Modern Girl who wore Western clothes and danced to jazz and knew what made the world go round. It was perhaps the beginning of the end for Japan because when a large part of a nation begins to throw off its traditions and to ignore its history, it

Many of the younger people in Japan were then zealously striving to be like Americans, but we did nothing to cultivate friendship with Japan. In fact, since 1915, when Japan issued the Twenty-One Demands upon China, the United States grew increasingly antagonistic toward Japan and the Japanese people were very conscious of the change in attitude. Had we cultivated the Japanese a little, had we tried to understand them and their problems, we might have saved ourselves the blood and costs of a useless war.

Well. I sat in Jim Farley's box at the two World Series games and these thoughts came to me as I saw fine American youth battle for victory. And I saw the American flag fly, and heard a band play "The Star-Spangled Banner" which is more than can be said for our theaters and concert halls where we act as though we were ashamed that we are a nation. It was a thrill to hear Lucy Monroe sing our national anthem to that huge host.

should have disqualified himself.

Justices often disqualify themselves from sitting in cases in which they have had some previous connection with either party to the litigation. The nonreceipt of a fee isn't always the controlling factor. Thus, a Supreme Court justice who has served as Attorney General or Solicitor General usually disqualifies himself from sitting in any case in which he has had some part personally, and, of course, there are no fees paid the Attorney General or Solicitor General of the Department of Justice. There are no written rules of the Supreme Court requiring a justice to disqualify himself when he has had a previous connection with either party to a suit that comes before the court. The problem is left to the conscience of each justice.

framework of relevant legal rules and the covenanted modes of thought for ascertaining them. He must think dispassionately and submerge private feeling on every aspect of a case. There is a good deal of shallow talk that the judicial robe does not change the man within it. It does. The fact is that on the whole judges do lay aside private views in discharging their judicial functions. This is achieved through training, professional habits, selfdiscipline and that fortunate alchemy by which men are loval to the obligation with which they are entrusted. But it is also true that reason cannot control the subconscious influence of feelings of which it is unaware. When there is ground for believing that such unconscious feelings may operate in the ultimate judgment, or may not unfairly men becomes as rigid as a board.

Meanwhile, the individual acquires a sardonic smile because the facial muscles go into spasm and raise the corners of the mouth and eyebrows. During each convulsive attack the person sweats profusely and may have so much trouble breathing, he turns blue. After a few minutes relaxation occurs, followed by another convulsion with the slightest stimulation.

The physician may not be able to control the infection but he can give strong sedatives to relax spasm and keep the victim sleeping or relaxed until the effects of the toxin are dissipated. Killing the organisms after the disease is full-blown is like closing the barn door after the horse escapes. Even the enormous doses of antitoxin that are administered are of questionable value. It is much wiser to rely upon prophylaxis.

Most school children and service men have received tetanus toxoid. A booster dose is given every year or whenever a cut or puncture wound is sustained. But too many of us have allowed our immunity to wane by not getting periodic booster shots on growing up or after separation from service. An injection at this time might save your life.

USA 2nd Class Power?

Jack Anderson and I have written a book, out this week, that is going to make a lot of people mad. If it makes them made enough maybe it will do some good.

Writing a book is the nearest thing I know to having a baby, though I hasten to add that no mere man can begin to pass judgment on that travail. Anvway, it takes long hours late at night and before dawn to bring forth a book - plus week ends which you want to spend with your wife or in the garden. Especially for someone turning out seven columns a week, writing a book just doesn't come

The last one I had anything to do with was "The Nine Old Men," written with Bob Allen, when the Supreme Court was knocking the spots out of Roosevelt's reforms. Before that there was "Washington Merry - Go -Round," written during the Hoover Administration as this country started coasting into the big depression. Bob Allen, a great newspaper man, co-authored that one too.

The above is by way of saying that books do not come off this typewriter merely for the exercise. That's why there has been no book for 22 years. The new book is called "USA - Second Class Power?" and is written because once again this country is drifting - this time downhill from its once great place as the leader of nations. If the book makes enough people mad enough to correct that drift, maybe it will have been worth writing.

The young pug walked the streets of Albuquerque. His name was Fred Weertz and he was good. He had once beaten the champ in an over-the-weight match, but now he was sick. His best friend had just been killed in the ring Fred Weertz walked the dark streets punching a fist into a palm.

The sound of music brought him back to reality. He looked around. It was slow music, sad, and it meshed with his mood. It came from a church. Fred didn't care much for church, but he walked inside. He listened. He prayed for the soul of his friend. It was a short visit, but it changed the life of Fred Weertz.

He was a young kid with big hard hands. He decided to clasp them. Fred studied for the ministry at Midland College. He wanted to devote his life to God. At college, there was a girl violinist who felt as he did. They Weertz took over St. John's Lutheran Church in Des Moines. It was $58,000 in debt. It didn't bother the young pastor. A son was born and he was named Louis. The family of three occupied a house at 815 18th Avenue. His father hoped the little one might someday become a minister: the mother hoped that she had given birth to a musician.

Mother won that contest. The house was big and Pastor Weertz spent his spare time in the juvenile courts, asking judges to let him take the bad boys home, instead of sending them away. Young Louis Weertz grew up with boys of all known skin shades, al' known credos, and many with in high school and college and in the U.S. Navy. He came home and took a master's degree in music at Drake University. He did concert work on the side and, at Idaho State, he was introduced to Joy Dunsmoor, a beautiful brunette who was Football Queen and was also engaged to the football captain.

Louis Weertz proposed to her on their first date. She turned him down. He asked to be introduced to her parents - a clever move. They were married the following summer. Fred Weertz was the one who married them.

In 1953, Louis went to New York and got on Arthur Godfrey's Talent Show and won it with a piano rendition of "I Got Rhythm." He preferred to play classical music, but the one song brought him to the attention of MCA, theatrical agents. The kid didn't want to tell anybody that he and his wife had been living on spaghetti for three months in an empty Forest Hills apartment.

Still, the rise of Louis Weertz was not spectacular. He is a shy young man, too modest, too agreeable. In time, David Kapp of Kapp Records took a look at Louis and decided to take a chance. "One thing," Kapp said. "That name of yours has got to Louis was insulted. But he said nothing. Just swallowed. Kapp spent two days scanning a telephone directory. "I got just the name for you," he said to Louis. Roger Williams." Louis nodded.

"All right," he said. "I'm Roger Williams. What next?" Kapp gave him a list of popular musical numbers. "Pick some," he said. Louis did. The result was a two-part album called "The Fabulous Fifties." It sold about 400,-000 copies. Then came "Autumn Leaves," which sold more than a million copies.

Lou worked hard. He recorded 14 albums in three years. Every time he was ready to sit at the studio piano, Kapp wheeled a big wooden Indian maiden into the studio. Her right hand shaded her eyes as she looked off into the distance. On her chest was a sign: "But where's the melody?"

Louis and Joy have it made. This year he will earn $250,000. Next year, with concerts, he will take in $500,000. His newest hit is "Near You." It will pass a million copies soon

In Memoriam

and Wife, BLANCHE M. LOGUE who passed away one year ago today,
October 15, 1957.
She always leaned to watch for us,
Anxious if we were late,
In winter by the window,
In summer by the gate;
Her thoughts were all so full of us,
She never could forget:
And so I think that where she is
She must be watching yet.

And so I finisk that where ane is
She must be watching yet.
Waiting till we come to her
Anxious if we are late—
Watching from Heaven's window
Leaning from Heaven's gate.
Sadly missed by Husband, Children,
And Grandchildren

In memory of our dear daughter, nother, sister, Mrs. Mary E. Emerick, the passed away 3 years ago, October 5, 1955.

Softly the stars are shining upon a precious grave.

Beneath lies our darling daughter,
Whom to God we gave.
Day by day we are so lonely,
If our friends could only know,
There is comfort in knowing that

with you,
Some day, we will be.
Missed very much by her parents,
Mr. and Mrs. Roy Bowman: children,
Linda Lee, Nancy Lyn, Richard Allen
Emerick: brothers, Ralph and Robert

Former Union Officer Named In Indictments

Embezzlement Is Charged To Fletcher

A former financial secretary and treasurer of Local 34, United Slate, Tile and Composition Roofers, Damp and Waterproof Workers' Association, AFL-CIO, has been indicted by the Allegany County Circuit Court grand jury on one charge of embezzlement and two of forgery involving a total of $1,306.42.

Norman Raymond Fletcher, 39, of 257 Maple Street, Frostburg, is charged in the three-count embezzlement indictment with embezzlement of $1,068 from Local 34 between February 1, 1957, and March 1, 1958, while serving as financial secretary and treasurer. Fletcher also is accused of forging one check for $196.80 on September 23, 1957, and another for $41.62 on September 5, 1957. Both were forged with intent to defraud George R. Petenbrink, Local 34, the Second National Bank and the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea Company, according to the two four-count indictments. The former union officer was bound over to the grand jury after a preliminary hearing July 1 and has been free under $2,000 bond since July 2. Fletcher is scheduled for trial Friday morning, according to State's Attorney James S. Getty. Another indictment placed on the open docket in Allegany County Circuit Court charges Ralph William Parker of Oldtown with assaulting Branson Sisler, also of Oldtown, with intent to murder him on July 29. Sisler was struck in the arms and chest at his home about 10 p. m. July 29 by pellets from a 20-gauge shotgun, according to state police. They said the pellets carried through a screened porch, a screen door and glanced off a wall before striking Sisler in his
